HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 29TH, 1877

THE Customs Gazette, containing the returns of trade at the Treaty ports for the third quarter of the present year have come to hand. The state of trade cannot well be gathered from the quarterly returns, since it necessarily varies very much, but they usually supply some interesting facts. Thus at Newchwang we notice an enormous falling-off during the three months in the import. of Piece Goods, while that of Opium was responding period of last year. not a fifth of that of the correspondof Sugar was also very small. This accounts for the revenue for the quarter being thirty thousand taels less than the same period the year previous. Tientsin-and Chefoo also show a falling off, but it is much less than might have been anticipated after the distress caused by famine last winter. At Hankow great decline in the revenue is apparent, but great falling-off in the export of Black Tea this season is compared with that of 1876. The import of manufactured goods was about equal to that of the same quarter of last year, but the quantity of Indian opium imported was rather larger, while the export of Szechuen opium was less by one-In Kiukiang a slight decrease is perceptible in the trade done during the quarter, but at Chinking there was an increase in the imports of foreign goods, though the total revenue was smaller than that of the corresponding term last year. The returns for Shanghai show a decline in the revenue of over eighty thousand taels as compared with the corresponding three months of 1876. This decline is, however, obviously attributable to the great decrease in the export of silk, the export duties having vielded only 96,000 taels against 309,000 no foundation for it. taels last year: while there was an increase of more than 100,000 tacks in imports. The the 22nd last, has the following on the Tea import of Grey Shirtings shows a decrease of 250,000 pieces as compared with last year, with those of the two preceding years, while T-Cloths show an increase of 171,000 pieces. There was no material variation in the import of Drills and Jeans, but a marked increase Sheetings, both English and American. The import of Opium was less by about 80 piculs than that of the correspond. Missions to the Heathen, there will be Divine ing term of last year. The Ningpo returns | Service in St. John's Cathedral at' 11 a.m., are not very satisfactory, there being a decline in nearly all the imports apparent. The re- the Rev. E. Davys, M.A.; and in the evening at venue was smaller by fifty thousand taels.

Coming to the Southern ports, we find that Foodhow has, like Ningpo, a considerable falling-off in revenue recorded, it being partly traceable to a smaller export of Tea, but chiefly due to the general decline in the 1876, there were only 29,000 pieces imported each port being greater than the same period last year. The increase is mainly due to the considerably in excess of former correspondcrease in the revenue from trade at Amoy port of White Shirtings, Drills, Woollen the great proportion of it went to America At Swatow the revenue for the quarter shows a reduction of 29,000 tacls. This is almost entirely owing to the great decline in the export of Sugar, the staple product of the district The imports, with few exceptions, oxceed those of the corresponding three months of last year, Opium being one of the exceptions. The returns for Canton, as usual, exhibit little variation, the small balance being, however, on the wrong side, and due to the decrease in some foreign imports.

With regard to the newly opened ports; with which we will class Hoihow, the returns are certainly not favourable for the period under review. The revenue of Holhow shows a decline of more than 4,000 taels compared with the same quartor of last year. This is, however, as in the case of Swatow, due chiefly to the great decrease in the export of Sugar, the imports not showing any sonsible decline when taken in the lump. The prospects of the import trade at this port are evidently good and improving. As much cannot be said at present for the neighbouring port CHARGE of the PRINTING and PUBLISHING of Pakhoi, where the imports for the marter were nil, and the trilling ex-Mr. Wilcox has entered into an Agreement ports gave a revenue of only 262 tacls. There is certainly plenty of margin for improvement in trade at Pakhoi. The returns for Wenchow for the quarter are also rather disappointing, but they would undoubtedly have been much better but for the action of the officials in levying such enormous taxes on goods. The revenue for the quarter amounted to 1,154 taels. Of all the new satisfactory results, but the trade done there so far has not been large. The revenue for the quarter was 10,442 taels, about equivalont to the falling-off in that of the neighbouring port of Kiukiang. It is to be hoped that the trade done at Wuhu has not been subtracted from that of-Kiukiang, for in that case there will be small cause for congratulation in the fact that the trade done at the former was nearly five times that of the first quarter after the opening of the port. The returns for Ichang were not very promising in the first quarter that as they did chiefly of coal taken in by the two May. Theodore Bernard, chief engineer on board business communications be addressed to the or three steamers calling. For the second quarter, however, Ichang cuts a still sorrier figure. The returns are easily summed up Imports, nil; exports, nil; re-exports, nil; A revenue of 89 tacks was derived from a addressed "The Editor." and those on business "The small quantity of Safflower and Rhubarb chief engineer. brought down from the interior and from two transit passes granted. The bright anticipations formed concerning the opening of this port have indeed been falsified. But it is too All letters for publication should be written on one early to despair yet; perhaps next year some foreign merchants may go up there and develop a fair trade. From its position Ichang should be a centre of trade, and may one day become so. The Messageries Martine Company's steame

> THE CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER AGAINST THE ENGINEERS OF THE "YESSO."

At the Police Court yesterday, before Mr. the British steamship Yesso, and William Henry King, third engineer on board the same vessel, were brought up charged by Inspector Grimes with the manslaughter of Chan Asam and others. the assault I have committed on my wife has been on board the steamship Yesso on the 22nd instant. Mr. Sharp, Crown-Solicitor, appeared to prosecute: Mr. Brereton appeared on behalf of the

Mr. Sharp; in opening said I shall now only have to make a formal application, as it will be more convenient. I believe to all parties that the case should be adjourned until the termination of the inquest, which will probably be in two or three days. The two prisoners are respectively the chief and third engineers of the steamship Yeseo. and have been charged with manslaughter arising out of the dreadful calamity on board that vessel It will be unnecessary on the present occasion to go into the painful circumstances and details of the case, as they are already so well known But I may state that I have just been informed that no less than eighty-one deaths have curred up to this time, besides there being many others whose injuries may yet prove fatal. will now call Inspector Grimes to give evidence. as to the actual charge, after which I will ask that those proceedings may be postponed until either Friday or Saturday, whichever may be most convenient to your Worship.

Inspector Grimes said—I charge the two prisoners with manslaughter in causing the deaths of one Chan Asam and others on board the steamship-Yesso on the 22nd instant, in the harbour of Victoria. The prisoners are the first and third engineers on board that vessel.

Mr. Brereton said-On the part of the first prisoner. Mr. Bernard, I have to apply to your Worship for bail. I entirely dissent from the remarks put forward by Mr. Sharp, that in consequence of so, great a number of deaths resulting from this deplorable accident, the bail should cuilt and should not be taken into account. by your Worship. The prisoners are simply charged with manshaughter, and the question is are they guilty of such criminal negligence as will sustain that charge? If only one death had ensued from the accident, their eves of Justice as if one hundred deaths had resulted from it. If a very large amount be both. Assuredly, then, any man could not but fixed as bail, the result will be that the prisoner. If on the other hand, a moderate sum be fixed bail can be procured. No one deplores the late terrible catastrophe which has taken place more than the first prisoner. He is man who has hitherto borne an irreproachable character. For the last eleven years he has been the chief engineer of the Yesso, shortly take place between Major Brodigan, and up to the late unfortunate occurrence no 28th Regiment, Piltown House, Co. Meath, accident has ever taken place. It is not likely that such a man would attempt to evade the Court of Justice. On the contrary, he is only too anxious to have his character cleared, and therefore no fear can be apprehended. I would ask your Worship to fix the bail at, say $1,000.

which under the circumstances will be ample. Mr. Sharp-I do not desire to make any objections to bail being taken, but under the circumstances of the case, which is one of the most serious and painful that has ever been before this court. I must ask that they be of a very substantial character. This will not be any great hardship to the men, as I understand they are in a nosition to obtain it. Apart from the actual guilt or innocence of the prisoners, which it will be our painful duty to investigate, this is a motter of very great importance to the community. seeing that engineers on board these steamers hold, as it were, the lives of the travelling public in their hands. I must, therefore, press for such substantial bail as your Worship may think will Mr. May-I shall not be justified in allowing the bail to be fixed at so small amount as that asked by Mr. Broreton. The prisoners will have to find bail in a sum of $5,000 each, and each prisoner two householders of $2,500 each. I will now remand the case until Saturday, the 1st

December at nine o'clock a m POLICE COURT. November 28th BEFORE THE HON. C. MAY.

> SUPREME COURT. November 28th CRIMINAL SESSIONS

BEFORE THE HON. CHIEF-JUSTICE SIR JOHN SMALE!

Henry Morton, late master of the schooner Onward, who had pleaded guilty to an assault upon his wife occasioning actual bodily harm, was brought up for sentence.

Being asked what he had to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, he read the follow-ing.—Public opinion my Lord, and, I have no doubt, the opinion of this court, at present is, that entirely unprovoked on her part, but such is not the case. Two years ago I married her in Sydnev, since which time I have been on the const of China. A portion of that time I have served as mate, the other as master of a ship, and every cent of money I could possibly spare I have sent regularly to her, often times leaving myself in debt in order that she might have the means to procure, without stint, the necessaries or comforts requisite to her position in life. Shortly after l became master, I sent her sufficient funds, with a request that she would join me. Mr. Wilson, my late owner, was at the Police Court, during my trial before committal, and he there stated that he had known me ever since I had been on the coast of China, also that my character and conduct had been at all-times; during that acquaintence with me, above reproach; farther than that, be stated that he still had entire confidence in me and that I should still retain my command providing I could be discharged from court. adding that he was satisfied. I had never drank to excess until my arrival in Hongkong this time. Again, my Lord, I have certificates from various people now in my twife's possession, that will prove to this court my provious conduct temperate: With such proofs of previous good behavour, this court, I am sure, cannot fail to see that there must have been great provocation to have forced me from a path I have so long followed. The old church of St. Mergarat's, Westminster is now undergoing restoration. The church has a history of more interest than is generally to be found in connection with London churches. It may not be uninteresting to mention a few facts connected with the history of the stainedglass window. The magistrates of Dort, in Holland being desirous of presenting King Henry VII. with something worthy to adorn his magnificent chapel then building at Westminster, directed this window to be made, which was five years in finishing, King Henry and his Queen sending their portraits to Dort, from whence their portraits in the window are delineated. King Henry dying before the window-was-complete it fell into the hands of an abbot of Waltham, who it was removed by Robert Fuller. EXTRACTS

A MORNING CONCERT A sanoy chirping on the tiles The long delay of morn beguiles ; Glad sparrows o'or their ivied wall From the old chimney starlings call And twitt ring round my friendly ench. His brood the gleeful swallow leaves

From orchard bowers yet wreathed in groy. A chaffingh halls the broad ning day Its fellow lilts; the white-throat's toll. Recalls bright eyes and active bill, While cushats coping from their fir Its swinging pink cones softly stir-

Through the dim nir what sudden simin Of music charms my parting dream The thrush in triumph wildly thrown With many a rapturous thrill and clie, His ocatasios! One answers-now lesounds each vocal shrub and bough

With mellow whistle o'er the lawn The blackbird greets the ling ring down; My magnes chatter from the elm; But sweeter strains their eries o'erwieln : The lark's song o'er the meadow dies. Leaving its echoes in blue skies.

Oh, gladeome choir, that bring at to aimil Man's sorrows, Eden loft behind! Oh, gladsome trills and strains, old orth Learns in your melody hope's bigth, Hears angel songs from heaven's-high thrine, Approaches humbly Love Divine Upleans the sun with radiant flood O'or dowy flowers, distant wood; The gentle gale that shakes the Pose. Its heavy fragrance tow'rds me blows My morning concert fulls-'tie day-The first glad morn of laughing May.

COLLISIONS

without mentally repeating the old Thirty days bath September, April, June, and November,

All the rest, &c. At the same time nothing could ensure greater accuracy; and the effort of memory is so slight in the case of the rhyme as compared with the column of figures one would otherwise have to remember, as to be peculiarly remarkable.

In a butterfly column of "Ethoes." current topics published some time ago, a very useful application of this system was -attributed to a Board of Trade offer, who, it was alleged, had transformed thesteering and sailing rules for seamen into simple rhyme, such as-

When both side lights you see aload, Fort your helm, and show your nd

Green to green, or red to red. Perfect safety, go shead. Now, all honour to whom honour is due, even in the perpetration of nautical postry. But in this case, which involves an ipplication more useful and important than may appear at first sight—the writer had either saddled the wrong Pegasus, or his "echo" at that PREVENTION OF COLLISION-STRUBBLES.

When both side lights you see Blidd. Port your helm and show your Rid. Green to Green, and Red to Rel. Perfect safety, go ahead.

Note.—This is the position of greatest danger; there is nothing for it but a good look-out, caution, and judgment. If to your starboard Red appear

Yet, if there is one army more than another which can ill afford to spare men for such a purpose, it is our own. It may be urged that commanding officers of regiments of battalions, bearing this in mind will invariably make up an ascort of infirm and decrepid men, whose presence in the ranks may be most easily dispensed with; but, however advisable this may be in a tactical or prudential sense, it accords but ill with the prestige which attaches, or rather should attach, to the colours A group of youthful officers and aged privates sprawling on the ground behind any OUARTER-DECK RHYMES AND SHIP available cover, with their sacred charges, popularly supposed to droop only in presence Most of us have at once time or another of Royalty, laidflat upon the earth, is hardly a been indebted for a refreshed memory to a dignified, certainly not a remantic, spectacle, few lines of doggerel learnt in our schoolboy but is nevertheless one which is becoming days, and possibly many would be suprised common at field-days. Will officers boast to find how few there are who could jot down in future with justifiable pride that they the number of days in the various months have carried the colours of their regiment in action? Will they not rather regard with feelings the reverse of proud a duty which bebars them from being up and doing in the fray? Nor is the dispersion of regiments of which we have spoken by any means confined to the actual battle In modern compaigning duties of a more or less detached nature, such as were formerly considered exceptional, have now become the rule. The proportionate strength of advanced and rear guards on the march and of outports and pickets when halted, has immensely increased. If a position is to be taken up for battle, it is not sufficient merely to occupy it; entrenchments must be made, covering a wide extent of ground villages must be more or less fortified, and the defensive capabilities of the ground improved to the utmost. All these things tend more and more both to deprive regimental colours of their old significance, and to render them an incumbrance and a drag on He was apparently an octogenarian.
